

Update - September 2015

Open Day - Designs Unveiled

The Project took a major step forward on Saturday September 5th when 3 potential designs, each presented by an award-winning architect, were unveiled at a dedicated Open Day. Cherhill villagers packed the current village hall to view the designs, discuss them with the architects and, most importantly, offer feedback to the Project Steering Group. The collection of feedback was the main aim of the event as the Project is fundamentally a community-based initiative and the views of the villagers are crucial. Analysis of the large amount of feedback received will take some time but it will be used by the Steering Group to determine the next stage of the Project.

The designs can be viewed HERE and there is still time to add your own FEEDBACK